DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Abdoulin (6,026,005).

Abdoulin discloses a single ended forward converter with synchronous rectification and delay circuit in phase locked loop in Figs. 8 and 9. A transformer with a primary and second winding XFRMR, a first MOSFET Q1, second MOSFET Q2, first resistor R1, second resistor R2 and controller IC2.

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

4. Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Lin et al. (2003/0048648).

Lin et al. disclose a current sense and control of DC/DC converters in Fig. 2. A transformer with a primary and second winding T, a first MOSFET SR1, second MOSFET SR2, first resistor unlabelled between Vo1+ and Vo1-, second resistor unlabelled between Vo2+ and Vo2- and controller T1.

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

6. Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Pelkonen (6,671,193).

Pelkonen discloses a power source and arrangement for restricting the short circuit current or rectifier in Fig. 4. A transformer with a primary and second winding T1, a first MOSFET Q3, second MOSFET Q4, first resistor R7, second resistor R9 and controller CTRL.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 2 and 4-7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

8. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: None of the cited prior art teach or disclose a controller with three comparator and three current source with the claimed connection and a detection diode coupled between the positive terminal of the secondary winding and a detection input of the controller with a programmable timing resistor.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Lin et al. disclose a soft start for a synchronous rectifier in a power converter. Sun et al. disclose a clamping circuit and method for synchronous rectification.
